A fleet proposal for

FOR [FLEET / OPERATIONS MANAGER]

The fleet that starts every morning.

A security operation is only as dependable as the vehicle that pulls off at the start of a shift. This is a proposal to put fifteen Chery Tiggo Cross into BCI Security livery: the right vehicle, one clear price, and aftersales built to keep every one of them on the road.

DELIVERED IN YOUR COLOURS

A patrol vehicle that reads BCI from a block away.

A marked fleet is not decoration. It is deterrence on the street, reassurance for the client whose site you cover, and a rolling advertisement that works every hour your officers are on the road. Fifteen vehicles in full BCI colours put your brand in front of more people in a week than most campaigns reach in a month.

Chery Westrand can hand over the fleet already wrapped to your specification: the BCI red and charcoal, your operations number, the fingerprint mark, and unit identifiers, applied to a professional standard and ready for duty on day one. No second trip to a signage shop, no vehicles sitting idle waiting to be branded.

A NOTE BEFORE THE DETAIL

For the team at BCI Security.

I am writing without being asked, which I hope you will take as a compliment. Chery Westrand supplies vehicles to operators who cannot afford a car that will not start, and a security company sits at the very top of that list. I believe we can put a sharper, cheaper, better-backed fleet under your officers than whatever they are driving today, and I would rather show you than tell you.

A patrol, a response call, a supervisor moving between sites: none of it happens if the vehicle is in for repairs or drinking fuel it does not need to. The real cost of a fleet is never the sticker on the windscreen. It is the mornings it starts, the rand per kilometre, and how fast it is back on the road after a service. That is the number we have built this proposal around.

We recommend the Chery Tiggo Cross 1.5 LiT CVT across all fifteen vehicles, delivered in full BCI livery. It has the presence a security brand wants on site, a frugal engine, a generous cabin for officers and their kit, and one of the strongest warranties in its class. The pages that follow show exactly what it brings, what it costs for fifteen units, and how you can own them.

There is no fine print here and nothing held back. If a single line does not ring true, tell me and I will correct it. If the figures are not sharp enough, tell me that too, and I will sharpen them.

Warmly,

[Fleet Executive Name]

WHY THIS VEHICLE

A security fleet lives or dies on uptime.

The vehicles that let a security operation down are rarely the ones that crash. They are the ones that will not start on a cold morning, that sit in a workshop waiting for a part, or that quietly burn a fortune in fuel over a year of long shifts. None of that shows on the day you buy. All of it shows on the contract you could not cover and the margin you did not keep.

The Tiggo Cross 1.5 LiT CVT is chosen here for the unglamorous reasons that matter to a fleet: a claimed 7.3 litres per 100 km, an automatic gearbox that keeps officers fresh across a shift, enough ground clearance and presence for mixed-condition access roads, and a warranty that caps your downside for years, not months. It is a vehicle built to be driven hard and kept cheap.

Buy fifteen cars and you have an expense. Buy fifteen vehicles that start every morning, cost little to run and come back from a service fast, and you have a fleet that pays you back on every shift it covers.

HOW IT IS LOOKED AFTER

What Chery Westrand commits to.

Buying the vehicles is the easy part. Keeping fifteen of them available is the work, and it is the part we take on.

1

One fleet account

A single named manager for orders, deliveries, servicing and every query. One number to call.

2

Uptime by design

Servicing staggered across the fleet so you are never short of vehicles, with common parts held.

3

Warranty that holds

5 yr / 150 000 km vehicle and 10 yr / 1 million km engine cover, plus a 3 yr / 45 000 km service plan.

4

On the road fast

Target delivery of the full fleet, wrapped and ready, within roughly three weeks of order, subject to stock.

5

Priced in the open

Every figure confirmed in writing before you sign. No on-delivery surprises, no quiet extras.

SAID PLAINLY

You will not be sold a car. You will be handed a fleet in your own colours, ready to work on the morning it arrives, priced in the open with nothing behind it, and backed by one team long after the last vehicle is delivered. That is the whole offer, and Chery Westrand will stand behind every line of it.

THE NEXT STEP

Let's put fifteen Tiggo Cross on your fleet.

You should not have to take any of this on trust. Let me bring a demonstration unit to your team, walk the numbers with whoever owns the fleet budget, and leave this proposal with you to weigh. There is no obligation and no pressure. If it is not right for BCI Security, we shake hands and I have cost you an hour. If it is, you have fifteen vehicles in your colours, ready to work. Name a day and I will be there.
